Agriculture

The Division of Applied Arts, chaired by Denver Nettles, is made up of the departments of business and agriculture.

Agriculture is the largest department on campus, surprising considering ASU-Beebe began as the Junior Agricultural College of Arkansas. Degrees in General Agriculture and Animal Science may be earned in years.

The business department offers two associate arts degrees and a 30-hour secretarial training certificate. The associate degrees are Business Management and Business Commerce Technology.

1980 Warrior Features New Advisor,

Publisher, Editor, Photographer

Warrior. The word and all it stands for will be a part of me for the rest of my life. That word alone calls to mind so many thoughts . . . smiles, fun times, hard work and high hopes, moments of laughter as well as tears, and friendships.

Working with our yearbook has opened so many doors for me, given me so many experiences that I couldn't otherwise have had. For example, the trip to Dallas this past summer for a yearbook workshop at SMU gave me opportunities to learn about both people and journalism.

But of all the benefits of editing this yearbook, one thing stands out . . . the friendship and closeness that can only come from working with people under all types of conditions.

My list of thank-yous is enormous, but I wouldn't feel right about sending this book to the printer without mentioning a few of their names. To my advisor, Mr. Chapel, special thanks (from The Kid!). To my photographer, Mike, thanks for churning out those pics (I know I was a pain in the neck at times but you never let on). And special thanks to Tom Walker of Hurley Publishing Company for his assistance.

Well, the '80 book is done, and I will be able to go out like ordinary people. I hope everyone enjoys this volume; I enjoyed editing it.

Kim
